

ABOUT US

Lightning Mechanical was founded in 2005 by Craig Gallagher, with the commitment of helping people feel comfortable in their work and home environments. Craig attended Morris and Somerset's Schools of Technology and has gained over 20 years of Commercial, Electrical and HVAC experience. Before creating Lightning Mechanical, Craig was the Vice President at Professional Climate Control. During his tenure he grew sales significantly by focusing on the Educational and Government Contracts, among many other private contracts. Craig believes that his employees possess a unique set of skills and acumen to tackle the challenges that our ever-changing industry presents.

In 2014 Michael Hlinka joined the Lightning Mechanical Team and has been a vital element to the continued growth and daily operations. Michael has two degrees from NJIT and possess over 13 years of HVAC experience. Before Lightning Mechanical, Michael held many positions from technician and system designer, to project manager and sales director. Michael provides each client with the proper attention to detail, by managing a team of highly trained professionals and friendly people.
